

Dirt : Secrets in the Soil

Special project of Utah Agriculture in the Classroom in cooperation with Utah State University Extension and the
Utah Foundation for Agriculture in the Classroom

Acknowledgments

Utah Agriculture in the Classroom is a cooperative program supported by Utah State University and the Utah Foundation for Agriculture in the Classroom.

This project was funded by the following organizations:

Utah State Board of Regents: Eisenhower Math and Science and Math Grant
Utah State University
Utah Foundation for Agriculture in the Classroom
Utah Association of Conservation Districts
Grantsville Soil Conservation District
North Cache Conservation District
Blacksmith Fork Conservation District
KUTV News

Special acknowledgment is extended to:

Brett Moulding, Utah State Office of Education
Fourth grade students at Wellsville Elementary
Classroom teachers and students who assisted in pilot-testing efforts
Don Daug, Utah State University
Marvin Tolman, Brigham Young University
Ron Nichols, Natural Resource Conservation Service
Bob Rasely, Natural Resource Conservation Service
Robert Newhall, Utah State University Extension
Rich Koenig, Utah State University Extension
Brent Bunderson, Tooele County Extension
Shauna Owens, Master Gardener, Davis County
Oklahoma Agriculture in the Classroom
Michelle King, KUTV News
Zacary Ereksen, Host
Lyndee Probst, Host

Video Production:

John Greene, KUTV News
Cody D. Skinner, KUTV News

Curriculum Developer, Executive Producer, and Package Design:

Debra Spielmaker, Utah State University Extension, Agriculture in the Classroom